

Where Are My Friends?

A lonely elephant walked through the forest, looking for friends. She soon saw a monkey and asked, “Can we be friends, Monkey?” The monkey quickly replied, ‘You are big and can’t swing on trees like I do, so I cannot be your friend.’

Defeated, the elephant went on searching when she came across a rabbit. The elephant asked, “Can we be friends, Rabbit?” The rabbit answered, “You are too big to fit inside my house. You cannot be my friend.”

Then, the elephant asked a frog, “Will you be my friend, Frog?” The frog replied, “You cannot jump. You’re different from me. I’m sorry, but you can’t be my friend.”

The elephant asked almost all the animals in the forest, but nobody wanted to be her friend. The next day, the elephant saw all the forest animals run away in fear because the tiger was attacking them.

The elephant saw the tiger and politely said, “Please, sir, leave my friends alone. Do not hurt them.” The tiger didn’t listen. He only told the elephant to mind her own business.

In the end, the elephant kicked the tiger and scared him away. After that, the other animals agreed happily, “You are just the right one to be our friend!”
